BASEBALL, PART II...

Cameron went to Lampasas Thursday night and racked up 14 runs by the fifth inning behind another two-hitter by John Barron while the Lampasas club went scoreless.

So they called the game, the weather chilly and evening pointless for the locals.

The same thing happened last Tuesday night when the Yoemen washed Rosebud-Lott 10-0 in five innings. That adds to 24 runs in 10 innings while Yoe pitching has allowed only four hits. Everybody must have hit Thursday night.

You get the impression that Barron, Thweatt and the bat bombers behind them are trying to impress somebody, which they are. This ninth win would disillusion almost any high school club.

Last year, the YHS crew of substantially the same lineup won 75 percent in a 16-4 season. The year before when baseball was restored to high school competition, it was something like 15-8.

This may be the year of an even higher win-loss average as this same group, mostly still only sophomores and juniors, continues to make a shambles out of early season opposition.

NOW-NOW-NOW

Where are the one-sport enthusiasts who could only see football just a few years ago? After a district baseball championship last spring, a AAA basketball zone champion this winter, good girls volleyball and a tennis program with only three courts, but that has kids hitting tennis balls on the side of buildings, on parking lots and in the street, this is decidedly an all-sports town.

It couldn't happen to a nicer bunch of baseball players, a number of whom also are good at basketball, football, tennis and whatever else requires some eye-hand coordination.

LEARNING FIRST AID are Boy Scout Troop 752, Explorer Post 752 and Troop 791. The multi-media course of standard first aid is being taught by Patrolman Floyd Tippit of Hearne and Patrolman Henry Riza of Palestine, both with the Department of Public Safety. Classes for the boys and girls of the troops and post were held in Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Area Roundup

Idled Potline Is Started

ROCKDALE

All systems were "go" on restart of the final idle potline at Alcoa's Rockdale Works, scheduled to go on stream Monday (today), a plant spokesman reported. Employing of about 80 additional workers for the project was reported as about complete. "It appears that the restart, which was originally scheduled for Monday, will meet that schedule," the spokesman said.

Girl Dies Of Overdose

HEARNE

An autopsy report shows an overdose of imipramine hydrochloride caused the death of a 14-year-old girl, Darlene Williams of Calvert. The sheriff said the girls' parents had requested the autopsy. The sheriff described the substance to be a tranquilizer drug that a doctor had prescribed for the girl's mother.

Planning Starts For Anniversary

GEORGETOWN

County wide planning for the Williamson County 125th anniversary celebration slated for June kicked off with an enthusiastic reception by representatives of area club, service and church groups. Plans for the festivities include the famous Blackwood Brothers gospel singing group, a dramatic presentation by the Georgetown Community Theater, square dancing, street dances, bicycle races, tricycle and wheelbarrow races, food judging and a great deal more.

Circus Coming To Somerville

SOMERVILLE

The Somerville Booster Club has contracted to present the famous Clark and Walters Circus in Somerville at the vacant lot behind Maddox Furniture Company, Highway 36 south for two performances Wednesday, April 11. Proceeds from the sponsoring of the circus will be used by the local band booster club toward the purchase of new band uniforms.

Fisherman Catches 54 Chairs

WACO

Curtis Carpenter of Gholson went fishing in one of his stock tanks and soon caught two wrought-iron chairs. He called the sheriff's department and 54 chairs were recovered from the tank. The chairs are part of the equipment taken from the Green-eyed Lady when the tavern near West was stripped bare January 14. All the furniture and plumbing were taken from the place.

Former POW Speaks To School

TEMPLE

Air Force Capt. Ron Bliss, of Temple, recently freed POW, told young school students they have a choice of many things in their lives that few countries in the world can boast of. Bliss, a prisoner for 6 1/2 years, said he returned to a country that too often takes for granted all that it has. He said the medical care, plentiful food supply and recreational activities available are not available everywhere in the world.

County Sets Public Hearing

There will be a public hearing starting at 9 a.m. Thursday in the County Courtroom on the subject of the county's revenue sharing funds and how they should be spent.

Groups and organizations that wish to join the discussion are asked to have representatives at the meeting.

The county's share of funds is $241,000, according to County Judge O. B. Harden. The county commissioners have purchased property for building a new county jail, using revenue sharing funds. The property is located where the old McLane warehouse and Magna-Craft were located.

Scouts Seek Sponsors For District Troops

An estimated 45 people interested in generating more Boy Scout units in the local Tejas District will be guests at a special organizational dinner meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday (April 12) at Joe Glaser's Catfish Farm near Buckholts.

The announcement was made by Ken Smith of Rockdale, superintendent of Industrial Generating Company and chairman of the Scouts' Together '73 program geared to produce additional unit sponsors throughout the three-county district.

Smith said representatives from six and possibly seven organizations in Milam, Rockdale, Cameron, Buckholts and Westphalia are expected for the dinner.

Prospective new Scout unit sponsors are the Milam Young Homemakers, Hope Lutheran Church in Buckholts, Westphalia Independent School District, Noon Lions Club in Rockdale, Meadowbrook Baptist Church in Rockdale, Aycock Assn. of Rockdale and First Baptist Church of Cameron. About 5-6 representatives from each are expected at the dinner, Smith said.

The evening's program will consist of a rundown on the rewards and opportunities in Scouting. A number of active adult Scouters will be present to assist representatives from the possible new sponsoring organizations.

Assisting Smith at the dinner and throughout unit organization phases this spring will be Mike Sterling, Jimmy Greene, Jim Carter, Bill Davis and Homer Bower of Rockdale; Allen Dodson, Felix Matula, Ed Foster and Jack Chubb of Cameron; Walter Miller of Thorndale; Roy Smith and Mike Uli of Franklin; and Tommy Glass of Rosebud.

"All of our Together '73 advisors are experienced and well trained in Scouting," Smith said. "The advisors will follow up with new sponsoring organizations until units are ready to receive their charters."

The Tejas District presently has 20 sponsoring institutions for about 40 Scouting units and upwards of 600 boys -- from Cub Scouts to Explorers.

Cattle Receipts Way Down At Livestock Auction

Following a week of lower prices and facing the women's national meat boycott for last week, receipts were so low at Cameron Livestock Auction Thursday that there was no market test.

A total of only 225 cattle and calves were offered compared with 725 last week and some 1610 last year, when cattlemen were feeling the effects of a long drought.

Cattle prices were lower last week, after hitting record peaks in the past weeks, but cattlemen said they are just now beginning to get a fair profit on their livestock investments.

Hog receipts were more normal with 573 on hand. Barrows and gilts were $1.25 higher and sows were steady.

A few US 1 barrows and gilts brought $37.10 to $37.70. US 1-3 barrows and gilts brought $36.80 to $37.10. US 1-3 sows brought $30 to $32.50.

Texas Library Week Brings Noted Reviewer To Cameron

"Widen Your World...Read" All Texans are being invited to widen their world during National Library Week, which is being observed this week. The Cameron Library is joining other libraries in Texas in observing the week.

The Cameron Public Library became officially a community library under the Library Systems Act, 1969, upon adoption and approval at a meeting of the city council in November of 1972.

Under the Act, the Cameron library is in the Central Texas Resource System, with Austin Public Library as the major resource center.

In order to meet the minimum requirements under the Texas Library Systems Act, the Cameron library reached the 10,000 - book requirement by the end of the fiscal year on June 30, 1972. Because the library lacked sufficient funds to meet the minimum $1.00 per capita, the city council voted to supply the shortage from the city's revenue sharing funds.

Under President Nixon's budget reduction program, federal funding for library-related programs has been drastically reduced and Cameron library has received no federal aid.

Mrs. Hazel Richardson, head librarian at Bryan Public Library, will review the book "Bonnie's Place" 10 a.m. Tuesday during a Cameron Library Friends "Texas Library Week" presentation.

The Friends program is one of three in reviews and a children's puppet show by Mrs. Doris Goodrich Jones scheduled in May at Cameron Public Library.

Library Friends and patrons will be hearing Mrs. Richardson for the second time in the past two years.

She is appearing during Texas Library Week April 8 through 14 on the theme, "Get Ahead...Read." Mrs. John Homerstad presented a March program on Japanese culture and customs.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe has declared Texas Library Week saying: "Libraries provide an opportunity for self-fulfillment and for continuing education for all...The public library -- with its long tradition of service to all, whatever their educational or economic condition -- provides real hope for reaching the goal of a well-informed citizenry."

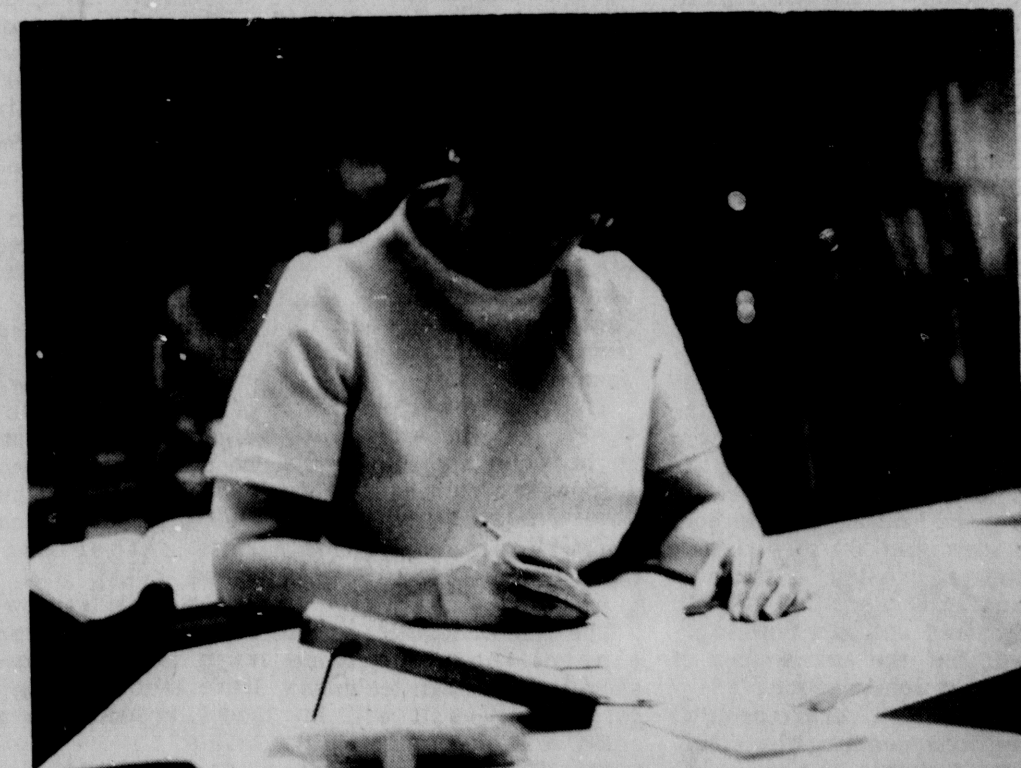

It is the sixteenth annual observance of National Library Week coinciding with the Texas observance.

Governor Briscoe notes the Week provides "library patrons an opportunity to show their support for the improvements that are vital if Texas public, school and academic libraries are to provide resources that truly equal patron needs."

An exhibit by local artists is also being developed.

Cameron Friends program chairman is Mrs. Judy McDaniel.

Sales Tax Refunds Growing

The city of Cameron banked a check for $17,921.30, representing sales tax refunds for the last quarter of 1972. This brings 1972 tax refunds to a total of $65,090.67, an increase over previous years.

The latest refund reflects sales for October, November and December of 1972, and includes the city's Christmas sales.

It was also an increase over the same period of 1971, when the total was $16,713.82 for the last quarter.

The refunds have shown a steady increase since its inception in the city. One per cent of sales tax collected is refunded to the city by the State Comptroller.

In 1969, receipts totaled $51,782 and in 1970 totals were $59,156. Total for 1971 was $62,830.

Payments for the tax refund runs one full quarter behind the time it was collected.

A Trip To San Diego...

Eight YHS youngsters won something at the Regional Science Fair, but Gary Fuchs won it all, almost literally, as one of two sweepstakes winners.

He also won a trip to the International Science Fair, San Diego, Calif., and awards from American Veterinary Association, Baylor University biology department, National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the U.S. Navy.

His "Formation of the Egg Yolk" is going far. And he has earned the right to face that most difficult of distinctions, topping a virtuoso performance. In San Diego, against the best he goes.

Gary and the 14 other YHS'ers who entered that Regional Fair are bright and able. Gary's preparation was something extra, like James Herbert Nance's work a year ago that took him to Chicago.

Finding at this age what competition is really like, not just talk or promise or potential, is a great experience.

Youngsters like Gary give an example of putting one's ability, one's money, one's energy where so many others' mouths are.

Gary isn't going to San Diego on hot air.

Monumental Indifference Ends...

Perhaps the plight of the Indian will get some recompense following the 37-day ordeal at Wounded Knee, S. D.

Indian and federal officials worked out a six-point settlement which points to reform needs of the American Indian:

--Russell Means, Indian leader there, will consult at the White House.

--Indians under indictment or arrest then will submit to arrest for arraignment.

--A federal investigation will follow into Indian affairs in the Pine Ridge Reservation, including an audit.

--Justice Department will bring suit in behalf of individual Ogalla Sioux Indians against actionable abuses by tribal or federal authority.

--The 105-year-old presidential treaty between the Sioux Nation and the U. S. will be reviewed.

And we are finally to learn why the shootout at Wounded Knee. And that reason will prove to be monumental indifference to the people we took this country from.

Vast African Sub-City Due Electricity By 1981

By Jeremy Toy

JOHANNESBURG
An $18.5 million scheme to provide every home in Johannesburg's vast African sub-city of Soweto with electricity within eight years may do more than just brighten the domestic lives of up to one million people. It may contribute significantly to the problems of pollution and crime control.

The scheme to electrify the vast collection of drab houses which make up Soweto -- short for South West Townships -- is the first of its kind in South Africa. But Orlando Power Station has long been part of the Soweto scenery.

Most of its power goes to white areas of Johannesburg, however, and only about 10 per cent of the 70,000 homes in Soweto have electricity.

The alternative for cooking and heating has been coal stoves. But the resultant smoke created a massive pollution problem which threatened not only Soweto itself but the entire area of greater Johannesburg.

himself with a smokeless stove.

In an area where people spend a lot of time out in the streets and in beerhalls rather than in their candle-lit homes, rumors about stoves soon spread.

Everyone was going to have to throw out their stoves and install new ones, which were tremendously expensive and needed high-cost fuel. Unscrupulous dealers encouraged the rumors for their own ends.

Only when the city council stepped in to assure residents that there were no such plans did the rumors subside. Manufacturers indicated smokeless stoves would cost about the same as the old ones, and the new fuel would not be of an exorbitant price.

Even so, fears persisted that if pollution were really to be controlled, everyone in Soweto would have to go smokeless. And with African's incomes very low, many people still had cause to worry.

The announcement of an electrification scheme should ease their troubles, particularly as it will include a special electricity tariff. The low rates will make the average monthly bill for heating, cooking and lighting work out at only about $2.75, compared with an estimated $4.15 for coal and candles.

The council will also provide a small subsidy toward the purchase of stoves.

Though there are bound to be those who still want to keep their smoky stoves -- and others who through poverty have no choice -- electricity should make Soweto a cleaner place to live in.

Sam Moss, chairman of the city's Non-European Affairs Department, said when he announced the scheme that it was "necessary and in the national interest to overcome the problem of Soweto's pollution and the danger it constitutes to the health of its people."

But it is in the streets of Soweto where an equally significant contribution may be made to the lives of the people who are virtually forced to live in African townships rather than white areas.

The dark, narrow streets and the even darker alleyways running between the little brick houses are an ideal breeding ground for crime.

Petty crime, particularly on pay-days, is rife.

New Chinese Journals Show Turmoil Subsiding

By James Pringle

PEKING

A whole new series of journals and magazines dealing with the natural sciences from physics to zoology and fossils have appeared in China, indicating that the turmoil that enveloped academic life during the cultural revolution has in many cases subsided.

The journals appear to emphasize pure research, rather than ideology and one new quarterly, "Chinese Science," carries Chairman Mao's quotation "Let a hundred flowers bloom, and a hundred schools of thought contend."

The first two publications, both dealing with archaeology, went on sale in the summer of last year, and were then the only journals available to ordinary Chinese which did not deal exclusively with politics and ideology.

In a surge of publishing within the last two months, nine more scholarly periodicals have become available.

One of the most interesting is the "Medical Journal," which behind its green covers has a series of articles in various medical fields, laying a certain stress on acupuncture anesthesia and the use of Chinese traditional medicine.

The magazine, which has begun appearing monthly, also provides a synopsis in English of its articles -- and the words "Chinese Medical Journal" are printed both in Chinese characters and in English on its cover.

Like the communist party organ "Peoples Daily," the new periodicals are distributed by the postal administration, and are available to the general public in several Peking post offices. The journal on physics is not presently sold to foreigners.

Observers here have noted that, despite the reappearance of scientific journals, none of the former publications on the social sciences which existed before the cultural revolution began in 1966 have yet been republished.

Envoys here believe this could indicate China's social science institutes are still undergoing "transformation" -- the final phase of the "struggle, criticism, transformation" movement backed by Chairman Mao.

This movement, designed to re-establish revolutionary purity and eliminate Soviet "revisionist" or western "bourgeois" influences is now thought to be in its final stages, however.

Chinese have indicated guardedly to foreigners that some magazines dealing with history, philosophy, films, art, music, philology -- even philately -- may re-appear by the late summer of this year.

"The humanities still seem to have some way to go to catch up with the natural sciences as far as the political process goes," said one diplomat here who specializes in the Chinese cultural scene.

"While the social sciences are still undergoing transformation, the natural science institutes are settling down and are now publishing results."

Observers here recall that, while the Red guards from 1966 - 1969 spread their revolutionary message throughout China, much scientific research suffered setbacks as a result of the general upheaval in the structure of Chinese society.

They note, however, that the process of revolution was never permitted, as far as is known, to disrupt the crucial research conducted in the Chinese nuclear establishment of Lop Nor, in remote Sinkiang Province.

Under the current "Thaw," the first two magazines to appear were "Kao Gu," (archaeology) and

"Wen Wu" (cultural relics).

Though similar in subject, "Kao Gu" has a more technical approach, dealing with such aspects as carbon dating.

House Approves Bill For Teachers, School Boards

After lengthy debate the House of Representatives approved a bill dealing with public school teachers' contracts and the rights of local school boards in dismissing teachers, according to Rep. Dan Kubiak's weekly newsletter.

The bill provides that teachers be given automatic three-year contracts after a three-year probation period. "This is a good device for retaining effective, hard-working teachers," Kubiak said.

"But at the same time the bill is a two-way street in that for the first time we would back up local school boards with full legal rights to dismiss ineffective or problem teachers for a long list of reasons. Presently a school board's hands virtually are tied in this respect," he added.

In other legislative news, Kubiak said he had voted against a "so-called" consumer credit code revision because he felt that the bill was wrongly disguised as a consumer protection measure when in truth it did little more than raise interest rates for small loan companies. "After much haggling the sponsor of the bill finally settled for raising rates from 8 to 9 per cent," he said.

In the matter of the Prairie View investigation, Kubiak said he was instrumental in helping create a special House committee to investigate numerous allegations of fiscal and administrative wrong-doings at the A&M college.

Officials of the school asked the Waller County district attorney to make an investigation. The district attorney then issued orders for four legislative aides, including Kubiak's secretary, to appear as witnesses before the Waller grand jury.

"I believe this was nothing more than an attempt to harass members of the Legislature who want to clear the air," Kubiak said. "The were later held to be legally null and void, but I instructed my secretary to provide any help she can to the Waller authorities. I still believe, however, that our investigating committee will more effectively get to the bottom of the Prairie View problem."

Americans Make Homemade Soap

With a sense of history as stubborn as a ring around a bathtub, more and more Americans are going back to the old ways. Now they are making their own soap.

Ecologists worry about dyes which may ease wash-day drudgery but poison nature. Some say that disadvantages to soap and soap-making are more than offset by the good they do to people, places, and the future.

Housewives swap old recipes for homemade soap, uncovering them among grandma's reminiscences, or finding them at the local ecology-minded store or in the newspaper's household columns.

MINIMUM OF MESS

Soap is being cooked and stirred in country kitchens and city apartments alike, the National Geographic Society says. After a couple of batches, the serious in-sist, several pounds of homemade soap can be produced with a minimum of mess, while recycling waste fats into something useful and perhaps as good as store-bought soap.

An enthusiast of The Mother Earth News promises: "It's an operation that can be just as small-scale and simple or as large and sophisticated as you want to make it... anything from throwing ashes into the cooking frying pan to carefully measuring rose geranium petals into a precisely controlled batch of face clean.

One proud kitchen soap maker testifies: "It doesn't produce a lot of lather, and it doesn't smell like perfume. It just does an astonishing job of cleaning."

There is no known connection between suds and cleaning power. But minerals in hard water combine with dissolved soap to make lime soap -- or rings around bathtubs. Only the dissolved soap remaining uncombined produces cleaning action.

Though scientists say they have developed a no-ring, anti-pollution variety, soap may steal an excessive amount of oxygen from water, suffocating fish. Conservationists say this is nothing compared to the dangers of eutrophication in lakes, a fertilizing oxygen-using process blamed on detergents.

WASHDAY WORRIES GO

Soap cleans because, chemically, it has an affinity with water so that clothes being washed become wet more quickly and dirt is more easily scrubbed away.

Washerwomen of Rome, according to one story, were first to suspect this. Some 3,000 years ago animals were burned to the gods, and dripping fat ran down the altar, through the ashes of sacrificial fires, and into the river. Downriver, washerwomen found they could get clothes cleaner when the water was polluted with this accidental soap.

Soap has been made from silkworms by Pakistanis and from desert plants, ated in to a frothy pulp by American Indians. Soap was so scarce and in demand it was used as money in 1841 in Mexico.

Prime Minister William Gladstone abolished Britain's soap tax in 1853, but, objecting to public pressure, condemned soap as "Most injurious both to comfort and health of the people."

Fat or oil and lye, the essential ingredients of all soap, are cheap. But homemade-soap makers are warned that besides the obvious dangers of boiling heat and caustic, they must not let their new soap get caught in a cold draft -- or it will get hard and flinty.

Accent on Health

"Caution" is the word to remember when you or a member of your family encounter a poisonous snake. A person's fear of snakes could well be his worst enemy in an actual encounter with any one of the four poisonous snakes found in Texas, which include the rattlesnake, copperhead, cottonmouth, and coral snakes. The most prevalent in Texas is the rattlesnake.

Should you encounter a rattler, the safest thing to do is to remain perfectly still or edge slowly away. The worst thing you could do is run, or shout, or make a quick motion. You only excite the snake, making it more apt to strike in self defense. The snake is not really the vicious and cunning creature with a deep seated hatred of man that many people think. It is really a rather timid and retiring creature that only wants to be left alone. But the snake will react to man as it would to any big and threatening creature.

Actually, more people die of insect bites in Texas than snake bites. Bees and wasps are most often the causes of insect bite deaths, although some deaths can be attributed to hornets, black widow spiders and even such harmless looking creatures as caterpillars and moths. Some 49 persons died of insect bites over the past ten years, compared to only 28 deaths from snake bites. But snake bite deaths are most frequent among the young and old.

The wise outdoorsman will avoid places where a snake may make a home. Walking in weedy areas with brush piles or thick undergrowth is asking a snake to lash out. Boots help; caution helps even more. Look before you step. Don't assume that a snake will shake its rattles as a signal of attack, or that it only strikes when coiled. A rattling tail indicates nervousness rather than a sign of aggression. And, a rattler may strike in any direction from any position.

In applying first aid for snakebite, make the victim lie down as soon as possible and apply a constricting bandage above the bite. The pulse in blood vessels below the bandage should not disappear, nor should the bandage produce a throbbing sensation. Loosen the bandage for a few seconds every 15 minutes. If possible, apply ice packs to the bite and get the victim to a physician or hospital.

UT Law School Accepts Only 525

The University of Texas Law School, one of the leading public law schools in the nation, receives applications from more than five times the number of students it can accept each year.

Last year 525 students entered the UT Law School out of 2,900 who had applied.

According to Associate Dean T. J. Gibson, an applicant is considered on the basis of undergraduate grade-point average in combination with his score on the Law School Admission Test.

BATHING BEAUTY

The original "bathing beauty" may have been Ivory's Purity Girl, advertising a new soap and featuring a sun bonnet and Gay Nineties version of a plunging neckline.

WINDMILLS

Windmills could produce twice the electricity now obtained from hydroelectric power, the National Geographic Society says.

Speyer - Kahler Vows Recited In Pasadena

Miss Linda Diane Kahler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Kahler, Jr., Pasadena, became the bride of Richard Wayne Speyer, son of Master Sergeant and Mrs. Phillip W. Speyer of Hurst, Texas, Saturday, March 31, in the First United Methodist Church of Pasadena. Dr. Harold Fagan officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The Church was decorated with candelabras, aisle candles, green foliage, and two altar arrangements of mixed spring flowers. Mr. Bill Wicker furnished the nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight peu de Soire and imported re-embroidered Alencon lace. The gown, designed and made by the bride's mother, was fashioned of an empire waist with a high neck of scalloped lace. The bodice was heavily beaded with bridal pearls and crystal beads.

The leg o' mutton sleeves were also heavily beaded, cuffed in lace and closed with small French buttons.

From the fitted bodice, an A line peau de Soire front skirt swept to a full cathedral length train. Beaded lace was used in scalloped detail on the hem of the skirt and train. Her three tiered candlelight illusion fell from a Camelot hat of embroidered lace, beaded with pearls and crystals.

The bride carried a nosegay of pale mixed spring flowers.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Shirley Kahler. Bridesmaids were Miss Cheryl Kahler, sister of the bride, and Miss Teresa Klare, all of Pasadena. The attendant's gowns were of yellow and white checked gingham. They carried white wicker baskets of yellow and white daisies with greenery.

MRS. RICHARD WAYNE SPEYER

Mr. Tom Bridges of Wichita, Kansas served as best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Bill Vance of Panhandle, and Mr. Alan Roberts of Austin. Ushers were Jim Smith, Jay Cook, and Ken Fisher all of Austin.

The reception, immediately following the ceremony, was held in the church hall. The bride's table, covered with a white floor length tablecloth, held a silver candelabrum with yellow tapers and the centerpiece featured the bride's nosegay. The four tiered traditional wedding cake was trimmed with handmade yellow flowers.

Another table, covered with a floor length white tablecloth and baskets of daisies, held a silver punch bowl and silver coffee service. Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Steve Smith and Miss Marla Kluck of Pasadena, Mrs. Tom Pickard and Mrs. Alan Roberts of Austin, Miss Phyllis Speyer, sister of the groom, of Hurst.

The bride is a graduate of Sam Rayburn High School. She attended the University of Houston and is now a management engineering major at the University of Texas at Austin. She is presently employed by the State of Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The groom is a graduate of Portsmouth High School, Portsmouth, New Hampshire. He is an accounting major at the University of Texas and is presently employed by the Perry Company as an accountant.

Weekly Market Report

Citrus fruits and green leafy vegetables highlight produce counters this week.

"Navel and Valencia oranges, tangerines, grapefruit, collards, mustard, turnips and greens, and cabbage are in good supply at the most economical prices," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, noted.

Other produce values include apples, bananas, potatoes, acorn squash, carrots, rutabagas, broccoli, dry yellow onions, radishes and green onions.

"Although fryer chicken prices are up considerably, they remain a good meat buy considering quality, price and nutrition," the specialist maintained.

"Egg supplies seem adequate for demand -- with large sizes in best supply. Grade A large-size eggs remain the best combination of quality and economy for the money."

Buying Tips For Ground Beef And Economy Wise Meals

By Christine Laws
County Extension Agent

Most meat departments offer consumers a variety of ground beef at varying prices and qualities.

Before choosing, consumers should consider ground beef differences and use. The difference will range from hamburger to chopped sirloin -- and they will be discussed in order of increasing leanness.

Hamburger generally combines lean beef from lower grades of meat with trimmings -- or fat cuts -- from higher grades.

Although it usually contains the most fat and sells for the least price, hamburger makes good spaghetti, chili, meat loaf and casseroles.

Ground chuck, on the other hand, has less fat, more lean meat -- and shrinks less during cooking.

It creates excellent beef burgers and Salisbury steaks.

The third type is ground round. Since fat is closely trimmed, it's especially good for weight watchers. Also, it's more expensive than either hamburger or ground chuck, and, with its low fat content, ground round may be less tender and juicy than other kinds.

Ground or chopped sirloin is the most expensive of four ground beef types offered.

Noted for excellent flavor, it's often featured in special recipes and deluxe burgers.

Generally though, many consumers find chopped sirloin very similar to ground chuck. Shoppers should consider how they plan to prepare and serve ground beef. In many cases, a less expensive type is just as suitable as a more expensive one.

HANDLING GROUND BEEF

Handle and store ground beef carefully to insure best cooking -- and eating -- results.

Select ground beef -- and all meat -- just before checking out at the grocery store. Refrigerate it as soon as possible -- that means don't leave it in a warm car too long. Ground beef stores well -- either frozen or simply refrigerated.

If it will be used within a day or so, ground beef can be safely refrigerated by wrapping it loosely -- allowing air circulation around it.

To freeze, wrap tightly in moisture-resistant material -- such as heavy-duty aluminum foil or freezer paper.

Frozen ground beef keeps for two to three months with little quality loss. To thaw, simply place package in refrigerator.

If faster thawing is desired, put in a watertight wrapper and place in cold water. Both methods minimize bacteria growth.

When preparing a ground beef dish, mix it as little as possible. First blend seasonings and binding agents -- such as eggs, evaporated milk and bread crumbs -- in a mixing bowl.

Then crumble in ground beef. Toss together lightly for a well-seasoned tender food.

Sports Murray-Go-Round

By Tom Murray

BIG TALKERS: Like predictions? Well, here's a cinch. With the Los Angeles Dodger season - opening series approaching, every disc jockey in Houston is suddenly a baseball expert... And, gushing over "Our Astros." And, "The Pennant." Or, "The Lip." Well, baseball slumps - like temporary ineffectiveness in any endeavor-are inevitable. Wait 'til Leo's Lions string together a few losses. Those characters will then, without a trace of shame, begin holding their nose and laying it on "The Astros." As opposed to "Our Astros." You are warned, so keep those Peepers open.

LUCKY LARRY

Dick Peebles, Houston Chronicle Sports Editor, did an outstanding job on a feature about Larry Dierker's fall off the mountain. It should be required reading for every young athlete. One who could read that story and not pull for the young Astro Ace to make it all the way back, has never struggled to get up off rock bottom... Oscar Larnce, in the Waco News - Tribune, asks: "Could the honors given Baylor's Grant Teaff as Coach of the Year be an omen of things to come? Three other fellows who received the Award - George Sauer, Hayden Fry and Gene Stallings were toasted, then were out of jobs a few years later."

One Hot Arkansas Fan who chides UT's Darrell Royal for, to use his epitaph, "Crying", best stick around. His favorite college football genius, Frank Broyles, has apparently decided old Royal must know something. Broyles, never a shrinking violet in the past when it came to his own football team, has suddenly begun monologing. But, he isn't going to fool the opposition. They've been suckered before.

Strange. Consider that last winter Bud Adams, decided Ed Hughes was too dumb to Head Coach his Houston Oilers and fired him. So, Bud goes to Dallas and hires Sid Gillman to come and successor, Rice Ex Bill Peterson. And, guess who the Cowboys hired to replace Gillman? Why Ed Hughes.

Cowboy Tight - end Bill Truax on Poke Genius Tom Landry: "Landry will never be a loser, simply because he refuses to lose. That's the way with any winner. Eliminate all the negative things. There's alot to that positive thinking, positive approach."

"A good recruiter," says UCLA Football Coach Pepper Rodgers, "is a guy who when you see him coming, you don't avoid him."... Jody Ramsey, the outstanding young baseball star out of Brazosport, tragically electrocuted on the Pan American baseball field a month ago, roomed with No. 1 UT Pitcher Ron Roznovsky when they were both All-America at San Jacinto Junior College.

Trucks Big Business In Milam County

Trucks and buses are big business in Milam County, and figures recently released by Texas Motor Transportation Association prove it. In 1972, in this county alone, 1,567 persons were employed by the trucking industry. They earned $11,794,809.

According to TMTA, the state association representing the truck and bus industry in Texas, truck registrations in Milam County last year were 4,314 and the total value of trucks in use totaled $5,910,180.

Statewide, trucks and buses give employment to 677,000 - that's one out of every five non-farm paychecks. Obviously, the truck and bus industry is a big one. And no other business more directly affects the daily lives of all Texans than do these two forms of motor transportation. The clothes people wear, the food they eat, the items they use in making a living - all come at least part way by truck.

Franklin Sets Golf Tourney

Officials of the Oak Grove Country Club at Franklin have invited all central Texas amateur golfers to participate in their blind bogey tournament on the weekend of April 14-15.

The tournament is expected to attract over 200 golfers and plans are underway to entertain them. Valuable prizes are to be won in four flights and a medalist champion.

In addition to pro-line woods and irons to be won in blind bogey flights there will be special prizes for driving and accurate pitching. A deer rifle will be won on hole 4. Pro-line woods will be won by the closest to the hole driver on hole nine. The medalist prize will be a set of pro-line irons.

The club is located five miles from Franklin on Farm Road 45. The attractive clubhouse is air-conditioned and will be open to visitors at all times. The nine hole course is in excellent condition and the large greens are comparable to the best, even in large cities. Fifty club members will be on duty all times to make visitors and players welcome.

The registration fee is $8 which pays for participation in the tournament, barbecued sausage for breakfast, refreshments at all times, and a barbecue dinner with all the trimmings during midday on both Saturday and Sunday.

Personal carts are allowed on the course and there will be carts for rent. Persons desiring information about the tournament are invited to call Dr. T. B. Carroll, chairman, or Emory Scott, president of the Club. Telephone No. 817-746-3271 or 817-746-2771.

Governor Proclaims DD Week

Governor Dolph Briscoe has proclaimed April 7 through April 14 Defensive Driving Week.

The proclamation was issued to call attention to the need for immediate measures to combat traffic crashes in Texas through friendly and defensive driving.

"Driver error accounts for approximately 85% of all traffic crashes," according to Robert F. Miller, Vice President for Traffic Safety, Texas Safety Association.

Miller stated, "DDC is a program designed to save lives, suffering and economic waste by preventing traffic crashes through better driving. DDC makes good drivers better and teaches them how to stay out of traffic troubles."

In the Central Texas area, Defensive Driver Courses are being taught by the Central Texas Council of Governments Alcohol Safety Action Project (Central Texas ASAP), in Belton; by Temple Junior College; and by Central Texas College in Killeen.

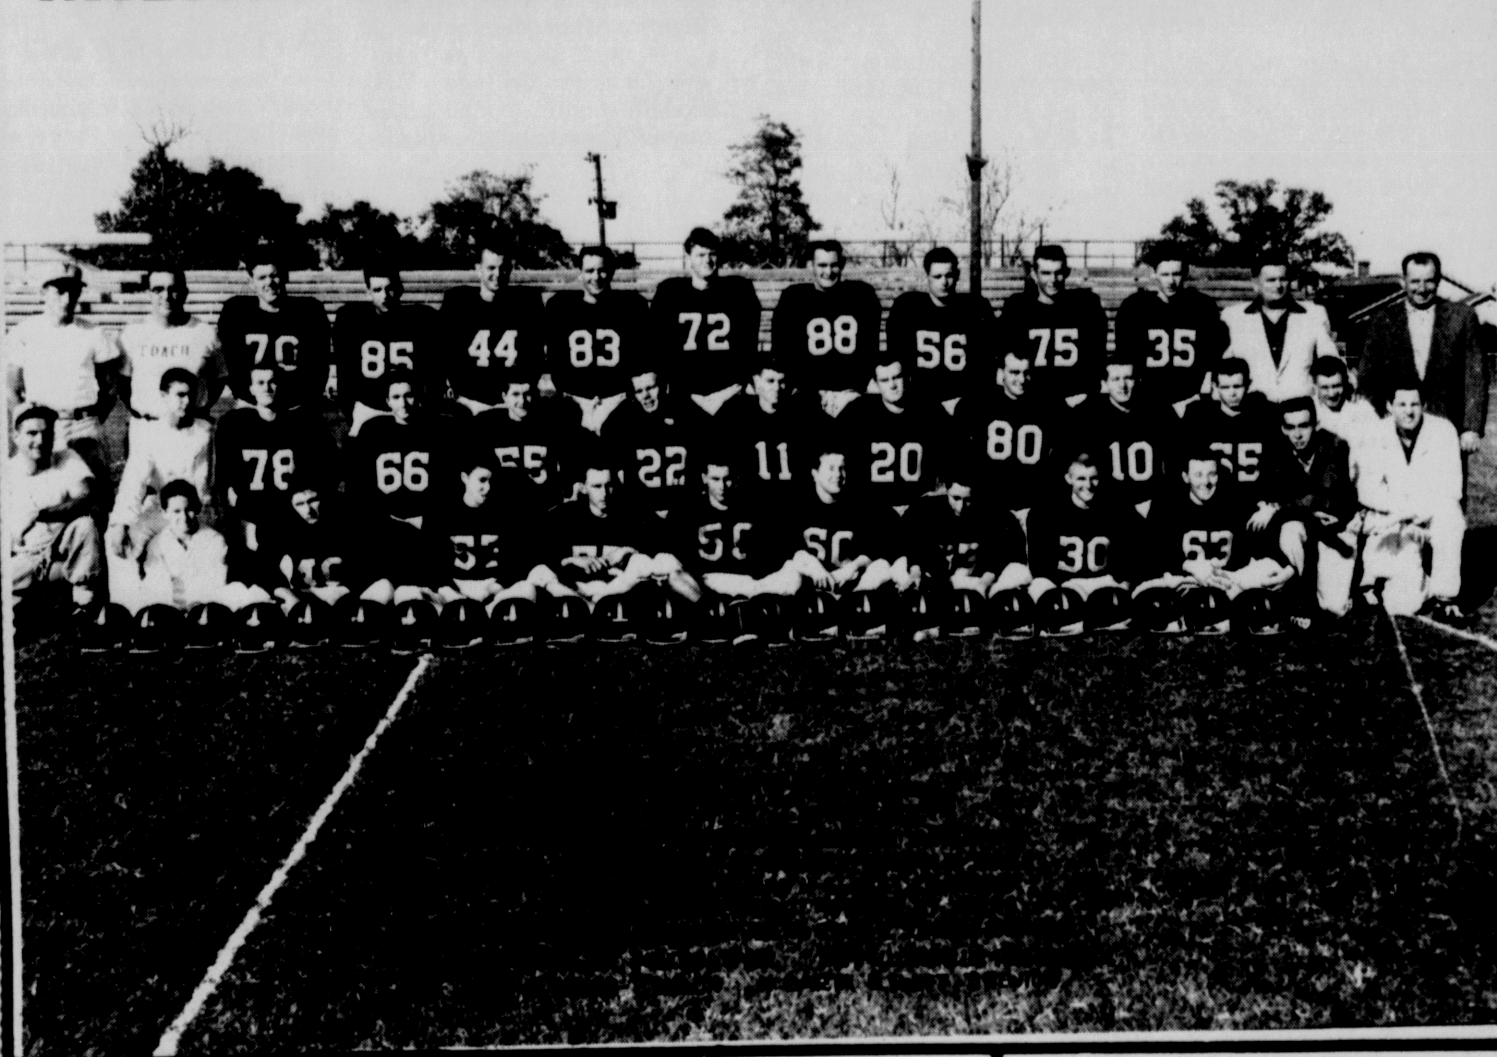

The courses are taught on a continuing basis by all three organizations. Information on the schools is available by calling ASAP or either college.

Miller also states, "The upswing of DDC activity since the State Board of Insurance decreed a 10 percent reduction in accident related automobile insurance to DDC graduates has been overwhelming. Since September 1, 1972, 1,300 instructors have been trained and over 400 Training Agencies have been approved by TSA."

Two Grants Approved For COG

AUSTIN

Governor Dolph Briscoe today approved two grants totaling $101,390 for improved law enforcement and crime prevention in the area served by Central Texas Council of Governments, Belton.

The money will come from the Criminal Justice Council, which administers the state's block grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration under the Omnibus Crime Control Act.

Central Texas COG will receive $92,000 as continued support of the Kinsolving Canyon Lodge, Belton. The lodge cares for 25 to 30 children 11 to 17 years of age at one time. Average stay is 11 weeks.

The children are those referred as potential delinquents. Purpose is to help the child alter attitudes and behavior to prevent his becoming involved in the criminal justice system.

The project is aided by a $16,235 cash match from the grantee.

Bell County was awarded $9,390 for continued support of juvenile probation services. The grant will enable continued employment of one probation officer and hiring one additional officer.

A local cash match of $1,800 will assist the project.

The Central Texas applications were among 39, for funding of $4,767,624, considered by the CJC Executive Committee March 9.
